

Final News of 2022 with Caroline

It's hard to believe that I'm already writing this last newsletter of the year with Christmas so close. I love celebrations and Christmas is my favourite, so in amongst the updates, I've included a few little Christmas reading recommendations, some with a touch of the season in the theme, others great reads for when the whirl of family and food gets too much and you just want to escape into a book!

When the guy you think is a self-absorbed jerk...

Gets his mum the sweetest ever Christmas gift

Tangled Threads
by Caroline Corvin

When you do a twirl in your Christmas pyjamas...

And all he wants to do is take them off

Tangled Threads
by Caroline Corvin

Tangled Threads: One woman, two found families, four magical Christmas celebrations

Christmas is a big deal to me, but I don't tend to read traditional Christmas books. My favourite Christmas romance is One Day In December by Josie Silver.

If, like me, you prefer this sort of less cheesy story with a touch of Christmas, check out Tangled Threads, and experience four different Christmas celebrations with Kate.

Christmas is all about family. Found family is a strong theme running throughout Tangled Threads. For Kate, the loneliness of Christmas without her own family is forgotten as her new friends wrap her in love and make her one of their own.

Buy Tangled Threads

About Tangled Threads

Read Excerpt

Tangled Threads is available in ebook and paperback across a wide range of retailers. Click on the lefthand button to see retailer availability.

A second chance romance with a twist of magical realism—click on the middle button to go to my website 'Books' page to read all about it.

Click on the righthand button to download and read the full book description, prologue and first two chapters.

Caroline's Reading Nook
Books, Film and Music

Offering to be an ARC reader for an author is lots of fun, as well as helping them out. This month I've discovered the attraction of insta love short reads. If you're looking for a quick romance read, with fun characters and a touch of humour, check out these first two in Nicki Bell's Sweet In Scotland series; Raising The Alarm and Right To Remain Silent. Set in a Scottish small town police station, they are a great way to enjoy some romance in between busy festive season activities.

This month's watching has been a case of something old and something new. I am loving my rewatch of Game of Thrones. I was an avid fan for series 1 through 5, but life overtook tv watching for a while and I never finished. So it's back to the beginning for me, and this time I am determined to make it to the controversial end. My new watch is Tim Burton's brilliant reimagining of The Addams Family. If you haven't seen Wednesday then check it out! It's fabulous and I was so excited that the end left the way open for another series. Many of my favourite childhood characters are back, portrayed with stunning cinematography. Of course this next week's viewing will be dominated by Christmas movies. My all time must watch is Love Actually, with Home Alone and The Holiday close behind. What are your go to Christmas movies? Love to hear your recommendations.

I've been immersed in music for my work in progress, Tangled Hearts. For a sneak peek into the mood of the story, check out these: The Scientist, version by Alex Goot and Jada Facer; Dancing In The Dark, version by Amy Macdonald; and Everlong by The Foo Fighters.

Author Update

Caroline's writing life

As the year comes to an end, so too does another book. My first draft of Tangled Hearts is almost done, and it's been a joy to bring these characters to life on the page, with all their strengths and flaws, their triumphs and tragedies. But I promise they will get their happily ever after! After Christmas it will be a deep dive into editing, which, as some of you will know, I really enjoy. Some writers dread the process, but for me the quote in the graphic sums up my feelings. I posted it a year ago on my Facebook page and I haven't changed. More time with my favourite (fictional) people.

I've also been busy on a revamp of the look and feel of Books One and Two. Look out for a different interior format, thanks to the work of the amazing Chessa Anderson. And while I love my beautiful covers, I'm contemplating an alternative set, as many authors do. It's so much fun to play with different aesthetics.

Quick romance reads!

If the busy season leaves you struggling to find reading time, a short read can be perfect. Here's a collection of them from sweet to steamy, all for free. Click here to check them out.

Love conquers all

Time and again I'm drawn to books where people have to overcome the scars of their past to find their soul mates. Click here to find a collection of romance reads where love must conquer a troubled past, including Tangled Threads and Tangled Paths.

Caroline's Corner

Welcome to my world

Wishing You A Wonderful Christmas & New Year

I'm so excited to be finally free of my day job for a whole glorious six weeks! More than anything I appreciate the extra headspace for my true love, which is writing. However, having more time with family and friends is a wonderful gift. As a bonus, it's summer here in New Zealand. Our New Zealand Christmas tree, the pohutukawa, are all in bloom overflowing with vibrant red flowers. We are looking forward to spending time on the beautiful beaches to catch some 'Vitamin Sea'.

My TBR list is still overflowing, so I plan to make a big attempt to whittle it down to a more manageable size. Part of my summer reading will be to reread Tangled Threads and Tangled Paths, both of which have incomplete Spotify playlists sitting waiting for my attention. I hope to have them complete to share with you in early 2023.

And of course it's Christmas! For us that means a five hour drive and then time to see family and friends who we miss due to the physical distance between us. When I farewell 2022 in a couple of weeks time, it will be with a sense of accomplishment at publishing two books this year. I have huge plans for 2023, with so many good things in the pipeline.

I wish you all the best for this festive season. May all your Christmas wishes and New Year dreams come true ☐

Caroline

Use my Link Tree To Connect on Social Media

Caroline Corvin

Auckland, New Zealand

caroline@carolinecorvin.com

www.carolinecorvin.com

You received this email because you signed up on my website or opted in from a book giveaway. I'd love to keep in touch but if you truly don't want to hear from me anymore, you can unsubscribe below.

If you prefer to just hear when I've got a new release, follow me on Amazon, Goodreads or BookBub.

Unsubscribe

