Hi there lovely romance reader!

Those of you who've been with me for a while will know that I plan to go off travelling indefinitely in the near future. I think with a few trial runs, I've nailed being a writer on the road. And now I'm facing up to the reality of being a reader on the road—mostly ebooks. I still intend to buy some print books but I won't be able to keep them, unless they're a signed copy or special edition. Others will have to go. And that's where you come in. Announcing the new...

Monthly Book Mail Giveaway

Each month I'm planning to gift a lightly used but maybe well-travelled book to a newsletter subscriber. I'll post to you wherever you are from wherever I am.

Starting this month—while I'm home so I can iron out any flaws in the plan—simply sign up on the form with your email and I'll do a random draw. I'll email the winner for a physical address and send your book.

This month's book is from one of my favourite authors pictured in my happy place, my desk...

Happy Place by Emily Henry

Harriet and Wyn are the perfect couple - they go together like bread and butter, gin and tonic, Blake Lively and Ryan Reynolds. Every year for the past decade, they have left behind their lives to drink far too much wine and soak up the sea air with their favourite people in the world. Except this year, they are lying through their teeth. Harriet and Wyn broke up six months ago. And they still haven't told anyone.

Yes, put me in the draw!

Readers, can I please ask a small favour of you?

So with almost 6000 downloads of Tangled In Time, I should be happy, right? And yes, I am absolutely ecstatic that my book is in so many readers' hands. But...with free books they don't always fall into the right readers' hands. Much as I love watching the numbers stack up I know a story about finding love on the other side of time isn't everyone's cup of tea. And what that means is not so favourable ratings from people who dislike that story premise.

So could I please ask a little favour?

If you do like a quirky time travel romance, could you please click through below either to Amazon or Goodreads and shower a few stars on Tangled In Time?

And if you have the time to write a quick review you will know my grateful thanks will be spiralling across the world to wherever you may be. 🥰🥰🥰

Caroline's Reading Nook

Books, Film and Music

📖 I've done several ARC reads this month so fell a little behind in my other reading. It has been wonderful to get back to my TBR, top of which were two books by a favourite author. My gal Chloe Liese has come through again with books five and six of the Bergman series. These books just get better and better! Everything For You follows sunny football star Oliver Bergman falling in love with his grumpy older co-captain, Gavin. Very steamy but oh my it grabbed at my heart 💕 In If Only You sweet and innocent Ziggy Bergman tries to rough up her image through a fake friendship with her brother's friend and teammate, bad boy Sebastian.

📺 I'm deep in a rewatch of Sons Of Anarchy. IMO this is a masterpiece, with incredible actors and a storyline that has always felt like an epic, very brutal Shakespearean tragedy. My husband teases, saying my interest is only in Charlie Hunnam (he does have the prettiest eyes!) but it has captured both of us. The latest series of Sex Education is providing lots of laughs and a fun contrast to the darkness of SOA. And then last but not least our screen is dominated by sport: Australian Supercars at the iconic Bathurst circuit, cricket, football (my niece plays at a national level and is in a professional academy) and of course the Rugby World Cup. The All Blacks are still in at this point, with a hard-fought win over brave Ireland to gain a spot in the semi-finals. Cheering them on also doubles as research for my new Heartlands series.

🎵 We are all prepared to go online on November 5th and try for tickets for next year's Glastonbury Festival in England. I've been listening to the band currently with the best odds to headline, Coldplay. I've seen them once, and they were amazing. One of their songs is on my Tangled Hearts playlist.

Author Update

Caroline's writing life

I'm pleased to report Tangled Past is now with my editor. I'm also excited the two of us will get to meet up IRL when I get to New York in December. It will be so lovely to

What would his friends say to that? He'd never admit it out loud to them. His mates pretty much still saw it as shagging, bonking, getting your rocks off, a quick fuck. Love was a word they feared girls might throw at them, with no knowledge of how to respond, except the unspoken rule that you didn't say it back. Yes, they lacked the vocabulary for what this was between him and Cassie—because none of them had the experience of a girl like her.

their story. Introducing Geordie and Jenna, who connect through a small town rugby club. Expect to find opposites attract, reverse age gap, and sister's best friend. This first book also allows you to meet all the men of the Heartlands. Each will have his own book! But Geordie gets to go first.

Also, a surprise for you next month. I've started a new book. It's a Christmas Novella to release late 2024, and you will get to see it first—as I write it! I love the title. Check back in November...

meet up and talk over coffee rather than zoom! If someone asked me to sum up this book, I'd say it is like Love And Other Words and The Time Traveler's Wife had a baby—in Scotland. Meet Cassie who falls in love with Nik as a teenager, but then finds an instant connection with an older man, Simon, across the other side of time.

These days I wake every morning around five with the characters in Book 1 of the Heartlands Series, revealing

Housesitting Honey

Look at this sweetheart! I spent a week with this lovely boy, only a year old and a gorgeous mix of playful puppy and sedate companion, sleeping at my feet while I did final edits on Tangled Past. What could be cuter than Benson the black lab with his Lambchop toy?

Reader Personality Types

A READS THE LAST CHAPTER FIRST	B DECIDES TO DNF WITHIN THE FIRST TWO CHAPTERS	C TEXTS FRIENDS TO SOJEE ABOUT THE BOOK THEY'RE READING
D SEARCHES FOR SPOILERS	E ONLY READS SERIES IN ORDER	F BUYS BOOKS BASED ON COVER ALONE
G REFUSES TO DNF	H HAS A TBR MOUNTAIN BUT STILL BUYS OR BORROWS MORE BOOKS	I NEVER REMEMBERS BOOK TITLES

Following on from last month's ramblings about personality types, here's a fun little Reader Personality Type Quiz. What's your type? I'm FADC. I'm definitely an inconsistent Type A—I only read the last chapter early if the author is putting me through so much agony that I absolutely must see the HEA for myself as reassurance that this couple will get the ending they deserve. I'm an extreme Type C, always gushing over my latest favourite. Please don't ask what book I'm loving unless you've got half an hour to spare!

I've decided holiday planning is both exhilarating and exhausting. Luckily I've got my own personal booking agent aka husband. Highlights of our plans so far:

- meeting up with author friend Loren Sorenson IRL
- my birthday week in New York—I'm planning to buy myself something special from a dedicated romance bookstore in Brooklyn, The Ripped Bodice
- seeing Stevie Nicks in concert on our last night in San Francisco
- Christmas in Vegas baby!
- New Year's in New Orleans
- and an ice hockey match before we leave (so I can better enjoy hockey romance!).

Lovely US readers, tell me your must do suggestions for first-time visitors!

Have a great October, I wish those who celebrate a Happy Halloween 🎃
