I have loads of treats to give you this month!

First, it's the book giveaway. I'm loving this opportunity to gift some of my favourite books from my favourite authors to you! This month's book is from a very special person, Abby Jimenez. Not only does she write characters you become fully invested in, represents the reality of life, has the coolest dogs (both fictional and real), the best book boyfriends, and makes you laugh and cry—she also owns the amazing Nadia Cupcakes. I so want to visit one day. Guess I'll have to wait till I get to Minnesota...

Sharing my favourite reads

“Love follows you. It goes where you go. It doesn’t know about social divides or distance or common sense. It doesn’t even stop when the person you love dies. It does what it wants.”

Part of Your World

In Part of Your World, two very different worlds collide when Daniel (my favourite man) and Alexis meet on the side of a highway. But bringing those worlds together seems an unsurmountable challenge. Click here to read more:

I'm sorry the cover won't be this special edition one. I could only find it for sale online for $250, so you'll just have to enjoy it here!

And last month's winner was

Samantha

A copy of Chloe Liese's Only When It's Us is winging its way to Samantha in Montana. If you haven't discovered the Bergman brothers series I highly recommend. Fun and tears, and rather steamy, but brilliant stories!

TANGLED PAST

Tangled Past Is Here!

The characters from Tangled Past have been with me for a long time. Some of you will have met Cassie, Nik and Simon in my first little novella Tangled In Time. And Cassie's parents, Blair and Daniel are in the short novel of the same name (soon to get an extended 2nd edition). From the moment they came to life on the page the Tangled Past trio begged for their full story to be told. Come and meet them in the first few chapters. Just click below!

Tangled Past ARC Form

For a while, the world shifted.
With her tucked in under my arm, it seemed a more hopeful place.
And I can still conjure up that moment in the early hours, sitting in this exact spot;
the fragrance of exotic flowers that lingered on her hair, the soft satin sheen of it when I dared to brush my lips against it,
our eyes meeting with the shared intensity of our need to reassure each other that things would be okay.

The latest chapter from The Twelve Days of Christian

This month I have another chapter for you, moving back into Christian's point of view. But also check out a revised Chapter 1 where Haley reveals another heartbreaking reason why the first Saturday in December is significant...

Books, films and music

I've found my first new auto-buy author of 2024. Julie Soto's Forget Me Not is a beautiful grumpy/sunshine second chance romance. Elliot Bloom is the unlikely florist who inherited the family business. Ama is a talented wedding planner whose mother's 14 marriages have taught her love doesn't last and a wedding is just a party. Through dual point of view and dual timelines we inch back to the event that tore them apart and forward to the one that might bring them back together. I listened on audiobook but have just bought the print version with this pretty cover. I'm also preordering Julie's next book, Not Another Love Song, due out later this year.

I'm officially addicted. In fact I'm watching an episode as I write this. And i've been recommending Ted Lasso to anyone who will listen. We have slowed down a little for season 3 as the knowledge that soon there will be no more looms over us. I'm looking for good suggestions of something with a similar vibe to fill the hole in our viewing when the series ends —send me your favourites!

I ticked off another bucket list concert! Getting this close involved hours in the heat, squashed in a crowd with a group of drunk teenage boys as my immediate neighbours. Even if you only like them a little bit, the Foo Fighters are a must-see band. I'll definitely be back for more—but I've learned I'm getting too old for the thick of the mosh pit. Next time I'll shell out for some comfy seats.

Cat Takeover!

It seems the dogs have been pushed out by their arch nemesis. This month we have another reader's cat, sweet Dougal. Apart from being very handsome with his striking black and white fur coat, he's also useful. His mum Lisa is an author too, and Dougal likes to help out with editing.

Remember you can email me your cat or dog buddy if you'd like them featured.

Welcome to my world

My Valentine excelled himself this year! I couldn't wait to share this beauty with you even though it's not yet on my wall. My amazing husband bought me this print from one of my favourite artists. And the perfect subject too, the timeless Audrey Hepburn. Technically it wasn't planned for Valentine's Day, but the gallery auction happened to fall just now, so it's nice to think of it like that. Soon Audrey will share wall space with my other picture by this artist, a stunning original of Linda Carter as Wonder Woman rendered in a similar style.

I use Linda to help me on the days when I'm low and the writer's constant shadow, imposter syndrome, gets the better of me. She reminds me if I put on my mental Wonder Woman costume I can conquer anything!

I hope you are all slaying 2024 by believing in yourself and doing the things you dream of even if that voice of doubt whispers that you can't. What would you do if you knew you couldn't fail? Go do that.
